A Great Year!
MARCUS LAMB

"I was watching Daystar a few months ago, when Joni suddenly turned to the camera and mentioned that there was a woman watching who was seeking God about her calling and purpose. I knew she was talking to me and immediately opened my heart to what followed. After hearing her answer the question I've been asking God for months, I rejoiced! I am grateful that Joni faithfully shared what the Holy Spirit had laid on her heart just for me."

SHE SAID YES!

WITH REBECCA LAMB & JONATHAN WEISS

Q: Jonathan and Rebecca, how did you meet?

R: Jonathan is the best at telling the story. (:

J: While my parents were hosting "Zola Levitt Ministries" they appeared on the "Marcus and Joni" show and I tuned in for the interview. On that show, I saw the way Rebecca shined and I knew I had to get to know her. I added her on social media and began to pursue her from there. The rest is history...

Q: Jonathan, for those who aren't familiar, tell our readers where you're from and what you do.

J: I am from the San Francisco/Napa area. I grew up with my brother, Stephen, and parents, Myles and Katharine Weiss. I am passionate about ministry, business, and the connection between the Church and Israel. Right now, I work full-time for an excellent software company nestled in the heart of Silicon Valley.

Q: Jonathan, your parents, Myles and Katharine Weiss, have served in ministry for many years. Describe the work they do and how their example has impacted your life.

J: Growing up, my parents were on staff at our church as pastors. They led many mission trips to India, Africa, and Russia. This included moving our whole family to live in Kinshasa, Congo in 2001 to teach the Bible. My Dad is a Pastor and a marriage and family therapist, and so Mom and Dad have a heart for reconciliation. God showed them the need for unity between Jews and Gentiles. They have been building bridges for years through TV, teaching, and tours.

When I was 14 years old and my brother, Stephen, was 11, instead of taking us to Disneyland during Spring Break, they took us to the Promised Land! That trip birthed in me a growing appreciation of my Jewish inheritance, and the prophetic significance of Israel and the Church coming into our identity as "One New Man" [Ephesians 2].

Q: Rebecca, you have a deep love for Israel and the Jewish people. How does it feel to know that you'll soon be a part of a Jewish family that has embraced Jesus as their Messiah?

R: I remember my love for Israel and the Jewish people began when I first visited Israel at 14. Since then, my love and understanding has only grown as I have learned more about the Jewish roots of our faith and God's covenant and plan for Israel. I've always wanted to incorporate more of the Jewish roots of our faith into my life, like celebrating the Jewish holidays and practicing Shabbat because I knew it would enrich my life. But I just didn't know how to do it or where to start. So, you could say my relationship with Jonathan is an answer to prayer and a desire of my heart. (Thanks, God) I'm so excited for his family to teach me even more, and have it be a foundational aspect of our life as a married couple.

Q: What can couples do to ensure that Jesus remains at the center of their relationship?

R: I'll never forget one of the things Jesus clearly told me during a fast a couple years ago. He said, "The right kind of relationships will point you back to me." My relationship with Jonathan has done exactly that. It has brought me to a place of deeper intimacy with Jesus. That's what the relationships in your life should be doing, encouraging you in your walk with Jesus. To keep Jesus in the center, I believe both parties should have their own personal relationship with Jesus, while also praying and growing together spiritually as a couple. Finally, keep Jesus first. I make spending time with Him a priority, and I'm always praying asking the Holy Spirit to show me if I remove God from the number one spot in my life. Remember, Jesus is your first love, and I believe His love is what truly sustains any relationship.

J: We both want God's best. We have made ourselves accountable to our families and spiritual leaders. Continually submit the relationship to the Lord in prayer and practice. We are learning to include the Holy Spirit in our relationship now so that we will be able to draw on Him in times of conflict throughout life.

Q: What's your favorite thing about the other person and why?

R: There are SO many things I could say! I love Jonathan's heart. I love his character, honesty, and integrity. I love how he treats his family. I love how much he loves dogs. And I love how he makes me laugh all the time! (Just to name a few)

J: She is full of joy! I love how fun she is, always "down" to laugh with me and keep things interesting. I love her taste in music and her openness to let me show her all the best movies she still needs to see.

Q: As husband and wife, how do you hope God uses your lives to further the Gospel?

R: I really believe God will use Jonathan and me together in ministry. I think we make a great team. That is one of things I am most excited to see play out in the future!

J: Rebecca and I are a team. We know we are called to ministry and open to letting the Lord guide us. I am excited to let our surrendered lives be led by the Lord into uncharted waters. I honestly believe she makes me a better man and I am blessed to have her by my side.

OF RELATIONSHIPS
WILL POINT YOU
BACK TO JESUS.

A Sacred Christmas

As believers, Christmas holds a sacred place in our hearts. We celebrate the moment when eternity stepped into time and God took on the fragile form of a man through the birth of our Savior, Jesus Christ.

He came to shine the light of salvation to humanity and give hope to the world. Through Jesus, we have access to a gift that no store will ever sell, and yet it's freely offered to everyone. Only God could come up with such a divine transaction, giving away what is priceless in exchange for our hearts.

This Christmas, we pray that you will reflect on the gift God has made available through Jesus. Whether you are walking through the valley or standing atop a mountain in your journey of faith, you can experience revival through the life-changing power of the Gospel. It's a gift you can also graciously give away when you support Christian television during this special time of year.

By making a donation to Daystar using the enclosed form, you are putting your faith into action and strengthening our efforts to bring hope to the world through ministry, missions, and more. As you join with us through giving, may your life be filled with the blessing and favor of heaven this Christmas season and throughout the coming year!

The Future Mrs. Weiss

By now you may have heard the news that our youngest daughter, Rebecca, is engaged! This spring she'll be marrying Jonathan Weiss, a young man we absolutely love and can't wait to welcome into our family.

I hope you'll look through the engagement pictures we've included below and share our joy in celebrating the happy couple. It was no easy task to keep this proposal a secret. Jonathan carefully planned all the details and waited for the perfect moment, choosing to surprise Rebecca at Marcus' 60th birthday party!

We are so incredibly excited for this beautiful couple as they begin their journey together. Until then, Marcus and I hope you'll join us in praying and believing for God's best in their lives as the future unfolds!

Joni

"When I support ministries, I never 'give to get.' I give because the Holy Spirit wants to partner with me in reaching the world, which is why I support Daystar. However, when I went to deposit some money in my account after making a pledge during Heart for the World, the balance showed that I had far more than what I thought I had. I may not give in order to be blessed, but it seems that is what God always does when I partner with Daystar."

Frances from New Mexico

"A year ago, I was diagnosed with breast and thyroid cancer. I was a total emotional wreck and started calling Daystar for prayer everyday. The men and women who answered were absolutely the best medicine available. They listened, they cared, they prayed. And I believe God answered. I got my latest test results back this week and there is no trace of cancer in my body! Praise God, and thank you Daystar Prayer Partners!"
