THE HOPE OF HEAVEN

WITH DR. ROBERT JEFFRESS

Q: Is there anything special that you would recommend doing in order for our readers to position themselves for success in 2018? If so, please explain.

A: A few years ago, a friend of mine gave me a great question for the beginning of the year: What change can I make in my life in the coming year that would most please my heavenly Father? I would encourage readers to ask the same question.

One of the greatest suggestions I can make would be to encourage readers to start with an assessment of their heart. Make sure you have a heart ready to receive what the Lord wants for you in 2018. I think it is also important to assess that our hearts are free from spiritual weeds. Are there possessions, relationships, and addictions in your life that are strangling your spiritual growth? Maybe this is the year, this is the month to end that relationship you know is displeasing to God; to deal with that addiction in your life that has taken over your life; maybe it's time to let go of that possession that has become an obsession in your life and taken your focus off of God.

Q: You've recently released your latest book, A Place Called Heaven: 10 Surprising Truths About Your Eternal Home. What can readers expect as they turn the pages?

A: It's interesting as I talk to believers that many of them fall into two categories: they are either fascinated with the idea of heaven, or they don't think about it at all. But I believe God says we are to be eternally minded, which means we as believers should be preparing for our eventual home going to heaven. That's one reason I wrote this book.

Q: With so much attention in our world focused on "living in the moment," why is it so critical that we also consider eternity in our everyday lives? What difference does a future heaven make in my life today?

A: The overwhelming responsibilities of this life sometimes eclipse our thinking about the next life. Not only that, I think to many people heaven seems remote. It seems irrelevant to those of us trying to rear a family, or keep a job, or make a living. And yet even though we don't think about Heaven that much, there are times in our life when we long for a better place than Earth. The truth is, whether we think about it or not, we all long for that home, that place called Heaven. It's how God created us.

I believe it is absolutely critical for us to consider eternity in our everyday lives for one overwhelming reason: our departure for Heaven is both certain and relatively soon.

One out of every one of us will die. It's guaranteed.

When we make focusing on eternity a priority, we are reminded of the brevity of our earthly life and therefore make the time count. It also helps us focusing on living pure lives that honor the Lord.

Q: As believers, how can we successfully apply God's Word to our lives in order to truly be victorious in 2018?

A: I believe following God's Word is the only way for all of us to be truly victorious in 2018. But figuring out where to start or even committing to start studying the Bible can be a challenge. If you don't have a regular plan for growing yourself spiritually, let me suggest what I call the five-five-five plan. It's really simple. Five days a week I'm going to spend five minutes reading God's word, and five minutes praying. Five days a week. Five minutes in God's word. Five minutes praying.

Now some of you will read that and wonder: Well, pastor, that's not very much. It's five minutes more than most Christians are spending right now. It's five minutes more than many of you are spending right now in God's word and praying. If you're not spending time on a regular basis in God's word, don't worry about starting big. Start small. Five, five, five. You'll be amazed at how quickly that time expands and how what you read and learn will impact your decisions, actions, and relationships.

The best way to be victorious in 2018 is to make a commitment to study God's Word and then pattern your life to live how Jesus lived: Kingdom-minded, loving and serving others, with his identity firmly rooted in his Father in heaven.

Q: What advice would you give those embarking on a new journey in life this year? For example, they are changing careers, getting married, or starting a ministry.

A: The greatest decision a person can make as they embark on a new journey in the coming year has nothing to do with changing careers, where you're going to live, getting married, or even starting a ministry.

The single greatest question to ask as we face 2018 is this: Are you going to make loving, serving, and obeying God your highest priority? If He is your highest priority then everything else will fall into place.

“WHEN WE MAKE FOCUSING ON ETERNITY A PRIORITY, WE ARE REMINDED OF THE
BREVITY OF OUR EARTHLY LIFE AND
THEREFORE MAKE THE TIME COUNT.”

SOUTH AFRICA

In a makeshift house on the edge of the red-hued Kalahari Desert, a family sits around a glowing television. To the north-east, a truck stops as tourists snap pictures of wildlife along the savannah with their smartphones. In the south, a couple has dinner as their young child watches educational programs on a tablet. It is a country of opposites and diversity – a place where echoes of the past reverberate against the walls of progress and a push toward the future. This is South Africa.

Several years ago, the Lord revealed to Daystar's president and founder, Marcus Lamb, that this was a country of great potential and promise. It is a nation that fought against the darkness of apartheid to see the dawn of hope for a better tomorrow. God was moving in that nation, and now Daystar is excited to be a part of the next chapter.

In July of 2017, Daystar launched to nearly 5 million homes over Multichoice DStv, reaching approximately 15 million viewers with our extensive line up of faith-based, uplifting programming, and it's all thanks to partners like you.

When you give to Daystar this month using the enclosed form, you're helping take the light of the Gospel to the farthest corners of the earth! Helping us expand our reach so that no matter where a person lives or how far the distance, they can find hope and the life-changing love of God right when they need it.

That's more than making history. We're impacting nations together.

The Power to OVERCOME

The New Year is always a great time to reflect about life, the trials you've faced, and of course the blessings of God. When I look at all that I get to do through Daystar, it is humbling to see how the Lord used a shy South Carolina girl to impact lives. Over the years, I've had amazing interviews with some of the most genuine people, and I've also been able to sing all over the United States and around the world. But it hasn't always been easy.

I remember in the early years when Marcus wanted me to be on set with him as we interviewed guests, and I was terrified. I felt unqualified and wasn't sure what I would say. But the Holy Spirit said to me that He would be with me and tell me what to say. In that moment, I learned an important lesson – that with God, you can overcome and thrive in life.

It's a beautiful lesson that is the central focus of an exciting new program from our dear friend and one of your favorite Joni Table Talk guests, Jimmy Evans.

Many of you are familiar with his ministry, Marriage Today, and now he's bringing you powerful, engaging messages to help you grow and succeed in every area through his new program, The Overcoming Life, right here on Daystar, Monday through Friday at 6am and Sundays at 10am ET.

So if you're ready to take your walk with the Lord to a deeper level, make The Overcoming Life with Jimmy Evans part of your day! For more information, visit Daystar.com.

2018: A YEAR FOR REVIVAL

by Rabbi Jonathan Cahn

There's a sense things are out of control. Thus I was led to write and release The Paradigm to bring forth a revelation to show that nothing is out of control – In fact, we are replaying an ancient biblical blueprint exactly and precisely. What does this biblical blueprint reveal about where we are now and what we must do in the days to come? In the apostasy and fall of ancient Israel, God gave the nation a reprieve, a window of time to return to Him. This window was opened by the rise to power of a most unlikely figure. We have now witnessed the same thing. A year ago, America stood at the juncture of a critical election that threatened to close the door on religious liberty. But as in the ancient blueprint, a new unlikely figure rose to power that surprised everyone. Here's the significance – America too has been given a temporary reprieve. The election was not the answer, but a set window of time for the answer to come. The answer is not politics – but revival. This year we must pray and labor as never before for revival. And, most of all, we must actually start living as never before in revival. It is the only hope America has. And if we all commit to living in personal revival, then the revival will start here and now. And if it does ... then God will hear our prayers and open for us the windows of Heaven.
